

Peter Marber
Loomis, Sayles & Company

Peter Marber heads emerging markets investments at Loomis, Sayles & Company, and was formerly chief business strategist and portfolio manager at HSBC Global Asset Management in New York. Previously he was Founding Partner and Chief Strategist for The Atlantic Funds, LLC, which was acquired by HSBC in June 2005. He began his career at Swiss Bank Corporate (nka UBS), and he was a Co-Founder and President of the emerging markets subsidiaries at Wasserstein Perella.

He has taught at Columbia and Harvard, has authored more than 100 articles and columns on international finance and globalization, and has written and edited five books including his most recent Brave New Math: Information, Globalization, and New Economic Thinking in the 21st Century (2014.) He serves on boards for the Emerging Markets Trade Association, Columbia University, the New America Foundation, and World Policy Institute.