

Description of Research Analyst Position
Latin America Corporate Credit

The analyst will have 3+ years' experience in all aspects of corporate credit analysis for Emerging Market Credits. This would include

- Experience covering Latin American credits preferably in diverse industries
- Ability and willingness to take strong views (buy or sell) on corporate credit and defend such views to both internal and external audiences
- Team player: ability to work on group projects that involve input from multiple sources and to help coordinate such projects.
- Strong writing skills for different types of reports: earnings reports, news highlights, breaking developments, initiation of coverage and industry and sector reports
- Multi-tasking: ability to answer numerous internal and external client requests for information in a timely basis (sales, trading DCM + investors + issuers)
- Good knowledge of global and regional economic trends and their influence on corporate balance sheets and credit quality and industry trends
- Strong communication skills to speak with investor clients as well as issuers (in their native language) on detailed financial concepts
- Ability to develop and update company models from original financial statements in English, Spanish and Portuguese.
- Language skills: fluency in either Spanish/Portuguese is a big plus.

Please send resumes to Rose Frustaci: rosemarie.frustaci@bofa.com