

Description of Research Analyst Position

Emerging Markets Corporate Credit Strategy

We're looking for someone who is highly motivated to look at the dynamic world of Emerging Markets corporate credit and how it relates to the rest of the Global Financial Markets, including knowledge or willingness to learn how to apply ESG analytics to our research. We are looking for the right combination of analytical skills, quantitative skills, knowledge of Emerging Markets and the ability to communicate with internal and external clients through a variety of means.

- The analyst should have 3+ years' experience in financial analysis of fixed income or equity asset classes and knowledge of the many variables that drive performance of financial securities
- Knowledge of the major emerging markets, including macroeconomic, political, and financial trends
- Application of quantitative skills to analyze these trends is necessary, including some programming skills.
- Some knowledge of ESG metrics– or the willingness to learn – to apply to corporate credit analysis
- Good knowledge of global and regional economic trends and the ability to interpret the impact on corporate credit
- Strong writing skills
- Multi-tasking: ability to answer numerous internal and external client requests for information in a timely basis
- Strong communication skills to speak with investor clients and internal constituents on strategy calls
- Ability to create power-point presentations on strategy outlook and industry trends
- Team player: ability to work on group projects that involve input from multiple sources and to help coordinate such projects.
- Language skills: helpful but not a requirement

Please send resumes to Susan Healy at Bank of America Merrill Lynch: susan.healy@bofa.com